

CLASSROOM NEWS

Three Year Old Class

January 2014

We welcome in the New Year 2014 with excitement about the upcoming school month. We all return to school renewed and excited about the days ahead. We continue to focus on our fine motor skills, our gross motor skills and classroom behavior. Reinforcement at home is always beneficial.

If weather has us wearing snow boots, a designated space outside the classroom door will be used. Please leave your child's boots there. Also, with winter apparel being worn, please have all removable clothing items labeled with your child's name.

Experience the Snow!

Weather and temperature permitting, it is possible that we will have an activity filled day in the snow. Should we be fortunate to plan this day, a notice will be sent home in advance in order that you may dress your child accordingly.

This month our math curriculum will focus on numeral counting, recognition of numerals and knowing values of the numerals.

On your child's snack day, he/she should bring one show-and-share item to school to share with the class and one age appropriate book for library time. This continues to be a special day for each child.

We continue our religion series focusing on "God Made Me." Concentration areas this month will be understanding and praising God that we can laugh, move and play. Creative movement activities will emphasize these concepts.
